"We were fortunate to have Tim Pierotti as the featured speaker on a regional call. Tim has a unique ability to break down detailed economic information into an easily understandable and entertaining presentation. He is very engaging, and his talk generated significant audience participation, questions, and discussion, as well as follow-up requests for copies of his materials. It's refreshing to find an economist that can provide an economic update and subsequently translate that into how we can help our clients. It's great knowing we have partners like WealthVest that provide so much support to our program. Between economic updates, industry roundtables, and sales support, WealthVest has really turned into a key partner for our program. Thanks for your partnership. "We are always looking to provide our advisors valuable insights on economic outlook, practice management, product trends, and other strategies. Tim's presentation was well-paced, and provided a great deal of timely economic data alongside a relevant and personalized analysis. We received great feedback from the audience, and we've even had the team request a copy of the presentation, or a copy of the recording for them to listen to again.
